Frontend developer

I am a developer who is constantly improving myself in the field of frontend development. I have a solid foundation in core web technologies such as HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, and I gain experience working with modern frontend frameworks (for example, React or Next.js).

I actively worked on frontend development during my education and in my own projects. I am interested in topics such as user interface design, UI/UX principles and responsive web design, and I constantly try to improve myself in these areas.

I am currently working as a junior frontend developer in a local Startup
